ACADEMY OF SCIENCE TO MEET IN RALEIGH FRIDAY

Many Special and Technical Papers Will be Read at Annual Session—Plaintiff Wins Damage Suit.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 26.—A verdict for $2,500 has been awarded to W. F. Wyatt in his suit against the Seaboard Air line for $5,000 through the burning of the old Wyatt tannery near Raleigh. The case has been pending for the past two days. The recovery was on the ground that the fire started from sparks thrown from a Seaboard locomotive. D. L. Ward was here from New Bern prosecuting the case for Mr. Wyatt.

Fred W. Habel has been reelected chairman of the executive committee for the Democratic party in Raleigh.

The program for the tenth annual session of the North Carolina Academy of Science to be in session here Friday and Saturday of this week is completed and includes a large number of special papers and technical papers on personal researches by members of the Academy. The readers of papers include C. S. Brimley, Collier Cobb, Joseph Hyde Pratt, E. W. Gudger, W. C. Coker, F. L. Stevens, W. C. Norton, J. D. Ives, L. W. Wilson, C. S. Venable, G. M. McNider, W. A. Withers, H. V. Wilson, J. M. Pickel, Geo. W. Lay, Z. P. Metcalf, Jno. F. Lanneau, A. H. Patterson, Hubert Hill, Dr. Chas. H. Herty, A. L. Field. The president of the North Carolina Academy is G. M. McNider, assistant State chemist. The secretary of Burton J. Ray, of Raleigh.

The Wake Superior court devoted today to the trial of the damage suit of Pinkie Phillips vs. the City of Raleigh in which $5,000 is demanded for injuries sustained through having fallen into a deep drain at the corner of Bloodworth and North streets. The plaintiff is an aged negro woman, highly respected. And her case has been pending for quite a while. There was a mistrial at the October term of court, the jury having failed to agree on a verdict.

Wake and Johnston counties join in a family record that shows the decided absence of anything like race suicide at least so far as the record of one family is concerned. It is the case of the descendants of Appleton Richardson, who was born in Johnston county close to the Wake line in the year 1800 and spent his life in Wake, living until the year 1873 when he died leaving 20 children, 86 grandchildren, and 186 great grandchildren. There are now known to be 1,056 direct descendants of this man. He was an extensive land and slave owner and quite a number of tracts of land in both counties that were owned by him are still in the hands of descendants. His people, too, have been and are still prominent. Dr. William E. Richardson, his grandson, was elected as a Democratic member of the first State legislature after the reconstruction. Rev. N. R. Richardson is an honored member of the North Carolina Methodist Conference. Others have been and are planters, merchants, doctors, lawyers, minis-

SITE OF REVOLUTIONARY TOWN OF BLOOMSBURY IS MARKED

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 26.—A large company of people participated in ceremonies here today for the unveiling of a tablet marking the site of the old Revolutionary town of Bloomsbury which is now well within the corporate limits of Raleigh. The tablet is an appropriately mounted boulder of native stone bearing a bronze plate for the inscription. With the ceremony of unveiling there was that of formal presentation by the Bloomsbury chapter Daughters of the Revolution of the tablet to the city of Raleigh.

Mr. John W. Hinsdale, Jr., was the chief marshal in charge. He introduced W. B. Snow, Esq., who delivered the address in which the place of Bloomsbury in the colonial and Revolutionary history of the State was pleasantly outlined. How the town was established in 1771 when Wake county was laid off, this to be the county seat. How the locality was at the cross roads of two great highways, one traversing the State east to west and the other north and south; how a goodly part of Governor Tyrone's army that he led against the Regulators in the incipency of the Revolution rendezvoused at Bloomsbury; and then of the final designation of Raleigh as the state capital, thus terminating the existence of Bloomsbury.

Miss Mary Hilliard Hinton, regent of the North Carolina Society Daughters of the Revolution, made the formal presentation of the tablet to the city and Mayor J. S. Wynne accepted in a brief speech in which appreciation of the city for the patriotic work of the society was a feature. The unveiling of the statue was by Masters William and Gavin Dortch, who are descendants of Joel Jane, the principal resident of the old town of Bloomsbury and whose descendants are still among the most prominent families hereabouts including the Dortches, the Littles, the Mordeices and others. William and Gavin Dortch are the sixth generation from Joel Jane of Colonial and Revolutionary fame.

The New Bern Ice Company filed today an amendment to its charter increasing the capital from $50,000 to $100,000 and extending the period of existence to sixty years. W. B. Blades is president.

The Home Mutual Insurance Association of Graham files an amended charter under which it is to conduct its mutual life insurance business. C. C. Thompson and Herbert Holt are among the stockholders.

A charter was issued today for the Wilmington Handle Co., of Wilmington, capital $125,000 by Angus McNeill, Malcolm McNeill and others for general wood-working plant.

The North Carolina Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows will meet in annual session in Winston-Salem May 9. The report of the grand secretary will show 282 lodges in the State with 16,907 members. During the year seven new lodges were established and two reorganized. F. D. Hackett of North Wilkesboro is grand master, R. J. Jones of Wilmington, grand treasurer, Marcus Jacoby, chairman of the executive committee and M. L. Shipman, State commissioner of labor and printing, chairman of the committee on reports and returns.

It develops that Lieut. C. A. Boone, of Company D, 35th North Carolina Regiment, Confederate army, who is being sought by Chas. E. LeGrand, veteran of the Federal army, for the purpose of restoring to him a Bible found on the battlefield around New Bern, is still living and resides at Elon College. He was for many years after the war a Christian minister and is now spending his latter years quietly at Elon College. He has a son, Dr. W. H. Boone, at Durham.

JACKOLA BLOW

Made Love to Mrs. Belmont in Offensive Manner—Was Arrested and Carried to Court—Released After Offering Apologies and Promising to Desist.

Special to Telegram.

New York, April 26.—When Mrs. Oliver Belmont arrived at the West Side court this afternoon to attend the hearing of the charges against Dr. John Jackola of Finland, who has been delivering lectures in this country on woman suffrage, she found the court room packed with society people. Dr. Jackola, apologized for his recent attempt to make love to Mrs. Belmont, which was the incident causing his arrest, and after promising to desist from further attempts to annoy her, Mrs. Belmont's attorney asked that the case be dismissed.

The court severely lectured Jackola about his conduct and cautioned him to cease annoying noted socialites.

WILSON SEEKS FEDERAL COURT

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 26.—There is much interest here in the effect of the bill recently introduced in Congress by Senator Overman for the establishment of a Federal court at Wilson which is now embraced in the territory that contributes to the business of the court here in Raleigh.

Wilson has procured appropriation for a government building and following that comes the effort for a court for that territory, the movement being accentuated by the fact that Wilson is the home of Judge H. G. Connor, the judge of the Eastern Carolina district. However, he is understood to be taking no sides in the matter whatever. There is a notable clause of the bill—the second section—which provides that the court shall be opened every day, thus assuring a clerk a revenue of $5 per day, without regard to what fees the business of the court may yield.

It is believed here that this may have the effect of defeating the bill in that it is an admission that there is not business enough in the territory involved to make it worth the while of a clerk to attend to the duties without the special revenue that his daily fee for going through the form of opening a court would yield. If the new court should be established the judge would have the assignment of the counties to be under its jurisdiction.

BIG JEWELRY ROBBERY IN CHICAGO

Dynamite Suspects Enter California Heavily Manacled.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 26.—Heavily manacled and guarded by eight officers, John J. McNamara, his brother, James B. McNamara, and Ortie E. McManigal, alleged dynamiters, entered California on the Santa Fe Railroad at Needles today and are expected to be in jail in Los Angeles by the middle of the afternoon.

When the prisoners crossed the State line from Arizona to California, the officers having them in charge felt for the first time since leaving Chicago that they were free from the danger of habeas corpus proceedings.

In this city there was no sign of excitement or hostile feeling toward the prisoners.

All preparations of precaution are being observed by the local police officers, however, for the safe entrance of the prisoners into town and their incarceration.

Railroads Indicted at Cleveland—Charges are Rebating and Violating Elkins Act—Lake Shore, Michigan Southern, Lake Erie and Chicago and St. Louis Involved.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 26.—The insurgent Republicans were turned down by the standpatters in caucus this evening. The caucus voted 31 to 12 against Senator Cummins' motion to place Senator LaFollette and Bristow Objects of Their Displeasure—Dissatisfaction Among Democrats.

The progressives reserved the right to further objection and the matter will be carried to the floor of the Senate tomorrow.

The only recognition so far granted the progressives is the placing of Senator Bourne of Oregon on the Finance committee.

Struggle Comes Today.

Washington, April 26.—Senators of every political shade were active today preparing for a struggle which may take place on the Senate floor tomorrow. Republican factions are at odds over the demands made by the Insurgents and rejected by the majority of the committee on committees; and the Democrats likewise are dissatisfied with the assignments said to have been given them by the minority steering committee.

The Republican slate will be presented at a caucus called for 3 o'clock this afternoon which promises to be a stormy affair, while the Democratic lists will be considered at a party caucus called for 10:30 tomorrow morning. The regular Republicans insisted before the caucus that they had taken good care of the insurgents and that there was no chance for the overturning of the program so as to place Senator LaFollette, on interstate commerce, Cummins on finance and Bristow on foreign relations which were the points of difference which caused the greatest trouble.

Although a further concession was made to the progressive Republicans by the Senate committee on committees, the executive session of the committee broke up abruptly today with the announcement by progressives that they would appeal to the caucus to be held later today and if necessary, to the open Senate tomorrow.

The concession made was the selection of Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., for a place on the committee on appropriations.

IMPATIENT FOR NEW BUILDING

Special to Telegram.
Raleigh, April 26.—A good many people here are beginning to feel that much very reasonable time is being lost now for the work of providing the much-needed fireproof state administration building through the delay in the appointment of the commission to have this work in hand. The names of a number of the Governor's appointees found their way into the newspapers some weeks ago but one or two of the seven required are still tied up. Those known to be on the commission are: Gen. J. S. Carr, Durham; J. Elwood Cox, High Point; Ashley Horne, Clayton; W. L. Parsons, Scotland county, and State Senator Rascoe, Bertie county. The bond issue authorized is $250,000. These are to be issued as the money is needed and the issues can be made any time after July 1 by the state treasurer. He is already casting about for bids for the lithographing of the bonds but this order, which involves several thousand dollars will not be placed until the commission is organized and ready to proceed. The same thing applies to the $60,000 bonds authorized for the establishment of a state school for the feeble-minded.

FOUR DAYS IN A BOX CAR.

Imprisoned Lad's Long Journey Without Food or Water.

He grasped for water and food, and after he had been refused told those about him that he was Hyman Golden, of No. 2634 East Forty-seventh street, Cleveland, and that he had been locked in the car last Thursday.

"I was sent into the car to count the flour sacks," said the lad. "Some one closed the door while I was doing this. I beat against it and shouted, but it did no good." The police made Hyman comfortable and telegraphed to his parents.

GREENSBORO'S SHOWING IN THE CENSUS REPORT.

Several days ago, in publishing the census figures for North Carolina by townships. The Telegram directed attention to the fact that as a population center Greensboro made a splendid showing in the tables of figures.

As a matter of fact, the question of the size of a city is not of first consequence. Quality of population, as well as quantity, is worth consideration; and there are many things in addition to population which must be considered in taking the general measure of a place and attempting to decide its real worth and actual advantages. In the case of cities of approximately the same size, one may be a much better city in some respects, or in many respects, than another.

In the case of Greensboro, there are numerous advantages which must be considered, in addition to population, in estimating the place this city occupies in the business, industrial, educational and social life of North Carolina; but, in view of the fact that Greensboro's restricted city limits afforded the opportunity for other cities of the State to make invidious comparisons of census figures, it is simple justice to this place that the further returns of the census bureau should be stressed until the public is fully aware of the facts in the case. It was for this purpose that The Telegram recently directed attention to the figures of the census of the State by townships. This shows as a population center Greensboro stands next to Charlotte; but the figures for 1910 and 1900, when compared, afford information which is even more gratifying to our citizens and which makes a showing for this place as a population center calculated to cause the outside world to take notice.

The figures by townships and for the cities for the chief population centers of the State show the gains appended, during the past decade. In other words, the increase in population in 1910 in comparison with the census of 1900 was found to be the figures set forth in the two columns below. The first column contains the increase in the townships and the second column the increase in the cities or towns. The figures are as follows:

Township	City
Greensboro.....	12,635
Charlotte.....	11,000
Winston.....	8,936
Durham.....	8,550
Asheville.....	5,945
High Point.....	5,538
Salisbury.....	4,789
Wilmington.....	4,772
Gastonia.....	4,560
Raleigh.....	2,928

As will be noted above, the figures show that the increase in the Greensboro population center was the greatest recorded in the State. It amounts to 1,635 more than the increase at Charlotte and is far ahead of any other center in the State.

The above figures show another interesting fact, however. While Greensboro lost prestige in the census report by failure to extend the city limits to include the population which is really a part of this city, these figures show how some of the cities of North Carolina made the wonderful gains about which they have been boasting for several months.

In cases where the township shows a smaller gain in population than is shown by the city, it is evident that the city gained either by annexing new territory or through the removal of people from the country districts of the township to the city. Take the case of Charlotte. The increase in population in the city was 15,923, while the increase in the township was but 11,000. It is evident that Charlotte gained almost 5,000 population by annexation or by people removing from the country districts of Charlotte township into the city. The actual increase in population in the population center of Mecklenburg was 11,000 and it was 1,635 less than the actual increase in population in the population center of Guilford.

The figures show that Charlotte is not alone in occupying this position in the census returns. Raleigh, Durham and High Point are places which gained more in population in ten years than the townships in which they are situated. The increase in the city of Raleigh amounted to 5,575, while the increase in the township amounted to only 2,926.

The figures for Wilmington represent an actual increase, as the township is co-extensive with the city limits. A somewhat remarkable showing in the above table is that the increase in Winton-Salem was exactly the same as the increase in the township.

The Telegram has not figured the percentage of increase in township population for the centers named, but the actual net increase supplies a record which stands to the credit of this city and removes to a large extent the charge which has been made that Greensboro is not growing as rapidly as other cities of the State. There has been an increase of population in this population center amounting to the largest in the State, and this population has not been obtained by juggling corporation lines. It is an actual increase of population, and it shows just how rapidly Greensboro has been growing.

The increase at High Point, in the city and in the township, shows the progress and the growth of that place. It will be noted by a reference to the figures for Guilford county that the increase in the two population centers of Greensboro and High Point accounts for the greater part of the increase in this county, while several of the country townships show healthy growth.

Editor H. B. Varner continues to be the leading good roads advocate of North Carolina. His efforts are bearing fruit, too.

The Columbia State has heard that there are eighty thousand people in jail in the United States, and says if they were all in jail in South Carolina all would sooner or later be released. There seems to be no question about the fact that South Carolina's famous pardoning Governor is fully able to cope with a situation such as suggested.

Seems that it is going to be impossible to keep the peace between North and South Carolina. The controversy now is in regard to the exact location of "Caesar's Head." The South Carolinians are claiming this mountain peak, while all North Carolinians are fully cognizant of the fact that it is situated in this State.

In Philadelphia seventeen children have been killed since January 1st this year by the trolley cars. In all 29 persons have been killed. The North American says these deaths were all directly due to the fact that the cars of the Rapid Transit Company are equipped with inadequate safety devices. A storm of condemnation of the trolley company has been raised in the city and it seems probable that the operators of the lines will be forced to adopt proper safety appliances to prevent the awful destruction of human life. Most of the children killed were young, but a dozen of the persons killed since January 1 were grown people, showing that there is something radically wrong in the operation of the Philadelphia trolley system.

Roads "Down Home."

North Carolina is rapidly forging ahead in the matter of good roads and has just engaged upon two projected highways that will prove, when completed, of inestimable benefit to the State. The Baltimore Sun refers to them as follows:

"One after the other the Southern States are joining in the good roads movement, and North Carolina sets a new pace for her neighbors by beginning the construction of a public central highway from one end of the State to the other. As it is one of the longest States in the East, stretching from the topmost peaks of the Alleghenies on the west to the Atlantic on the east, this road will be 400 miles long.

Its promoters believe it will be the longest continuous State highway in the Union. "At its recent session the Legislature provided for State aid for its construction, and the commissioners who are to have charge of the work are now arranging for the selection of the most feasible route. So far as possible, existing roads are to be utilized, and by straightening and improving these many miles can be saved. New roads will be built to connect one with another. Each county will assume its proportion of the work, and in this way the project can be completed within a comparatively short time. The road is to extend from Beaufort Harbor on the Atlantic to the Tennessee border. Members of the commission will contribute their services to the State, accepting no pay, and as they journey in automobiles along the routes proposed a good roads meeting will be held at every stopping place, the farmers and townsmen gathering to meet them.

"Another long road is planned from Wilmington to Charlotte, running through the southern counties along the South Carolina border. This will give two highways running for hundreds of miles, which will be the basis of a system that will eventually cover most of this immense area of the big old State. Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, of which Charlotte is the center, was a pioneer in building macadam roads in the South, and though in many sections the 'streaks of mud' of the olden time remain, North Carolina is again taking the lead."—Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

WHAT NORTH CAROLINA EDITORS ARE SAYING.

New Federal Court House.

The initial court in Salisbury's new federal court room is being held today with Judge Boyd presiding. In point of construction, and in the arrangement of the judge's room, the district attorney's room, the witness room, each with electric lights, water, lavatories, toilets and other modern conveniences and luxuries, the Salisbury federal court room surpasses any other court room in the South. This is not exclusively our statement but is the opinion of all who have seen the court room. It is not a fish story either. The Judge and District Attorney are so well pleased with all the appointments of the room they have determined that in the future they will try most of the cases here. Salisbury is, indeed, the logical point for the federal court, being more centrally located in the district and more easily reached by rail from the surrounding towns and counties. We are proud of the court room and not in the least bashful about saying so.—Salisbury Post.

Pressing the Invitation.

The Greensboro Telegram believes that Greensboro and Atlanta alike are surfeited with baseball and golf. This may be true but has our contemporary considered the superior quality of sport which obtains in this favored spot? We still hope that it will accept our invitation to be circumscribed for The Atlanta Journal on the diamond at Latta park and on the links a short distance away.—Charlotte Observer.

Caesar's Head and the Mecklenburg Daughters.

The story that came out of Brevard by way of Asheville Monday night intimating the overturning of Caesar's Head lacks confirmation and is probably, like that of the death of a distinguished humorist as described by himself, "greatly exaggerated." The fact is, the dispatch made a noise like a native North Carolina myth, the "nigger in the woodpile" being that "The Head" is a South Carolina institution—born and made in South Carolina.

Caesar's Head is situated in Greenville county. The North Carolina line runs slightly northeast and southwest about two miles north of The Head. The Head itself juts out from near the top of a cliff that drops about 1,400 feet sheer to the valley of one of the forks of the Saluda and looks out with grim defiance upon the wall of Table Rock, in Pickens county, some seven or eight miles to the west. A native of the locality but resident on the North Carolina side once told us that the distance from the top of the cliff to its base is 60,000 feet, but in that estimate he was probably mistaken. The atmosphere of North Carolina infuses a singular elasticity into the human faculty of calculation.

The view from Caesar's Head is one of the two or three grandest in the Southern Appalachian mountains. Its special glory is that it commands many thousands of square miles of Piedmont country to the south and east with seemingly countless farms, forests, cities and villages, the smoke from factory chimneys being visible for 50 to 60 miles, and a contrasting noble mountain prospect extending for at least a hundred miles to the west and north. From most of the Appalachian mountain peaks, one can see only other mountains, but from Caesar's Head probably 3,000 square miles of merely undulating territory are within the sweep of the eye.

There are those who say that the likeness of the rocks protruding from the cliff's side to the human profile and more particularly to the countenance of a Caesar is imaginary, but that is false. One who climbs down the circuitous path, about 100 feet, around by "The Devil's Dining Room," and peers upward, clinging of course to the laurel roots and watching for snakes, from a point giving the correct angle, recognizes the serenely rugged lineaments of an ancient Roman, Teuton, Celt or Gaul, according to one's racial predilections. Anyway, the face is there and, in our opinion, there to outlast any life insurance company or Egyptian pyramid on earth. Its permanency is a better bet than the Sphinx.

On the North Carolina side the mountaineers have been feeling shocks for 30 years and more. Away back in 1880 they heard rumblings in Bald Mountain, in the Hickory Nut Gap, and proceeded to announce the debut of a volcano. The true explanation was that a bit of the land slid down the mountain side, but one never hears that in North Carolina. Most of the North Carolinians live in hourly expectation that Bald Mountain will begin to labor and they would be happy in that event though it only brought forth a mouse. The circumstance would be susceptible of endless development in the advertising of the Summer resorts.

For a part of the nose or the upper lip or one beetling eye-brow of Caesar's Head to drop off into the abyss beneath is in the range of possibility, but it is not probable. If the report of such a phenomenon should be confirmed, the suspicion would arise that the Daughters of the Revolution of Mecklenburg county had a hand in it. To move The Head a few miles into Transylvania county might be beyond their ability but it is not beyond their ambition. We predict that they will set up a monument in a few years reciting that The Head was born in North Carolina, everlasting though its residence be in Greenville county, S. C.—Columbia State.

The Gutenberg Bible.

The Gutenberg 42-line Bible of 1450-55, a copy of which brought the royal sum of $50,000 at the Hoe sale in New York yesterday, must now take rank at the most costly book known to collectors, as it has long been one of the most rare. This copy was bought by the late Robert Hoe for $22,500 in 1897, the seller being Bernard Quaritch, the great London bookseller. Quaritch had paid $20,000 for it a short while before. At the sale yesterday his son offered $30,000 for the very same copy.

The rise of great private libraries in the United States has much stimulated the rare book trade in late years and prices made great leaps upward. A generation ago a good copy of the Shakespeare First Folio might have been had for $5,000 or $6,000, but today the only copy known to be in the market is held at about $20,000. And Shakespeare First Folios are by no means rare. Fully 125 specimens have been catalogued by the experts and certain very wealthy collectors, such as J. Pierpont Morgan, own two or more. Of the Gutenberg 42-line Bible, however, but seven copies are known. Two of these are in the United States, one being the copy sold yesterday and the other being a copy in Mr. Morgan's collection in New York.

In view of the fact that this Bible is now the undisputed champion of the auction rooms, it is curious to remember that the enterprise of printing it reduced Gutenberg to poverty and made him a dependent of Adolf, Archbishop of Nassau. The inventor of printing conceived the idea of printing the Latin vulgate upon a great scale in 1449, and all of the money at his command went into the preparation of the type. Then he formed a partnership with Johann Fust, a wealthy Mainz merchant, by the terms of which Fust was to supply the capital for the printing. To secure Fust he was given a mortgage upon Gutenberg's type. When the Bible was finally completed the sales were so slow that Fust grew impatient, and finally he foreclosed his mortgage and turned Gutenberg out. Not only the 42-line Bible, but also the Psalter of 1457 was involved in this transaction. A copy of this Psalter brought $24,750 in London so long ago as 1884.

Gutenberg, having completed his stupendous work, found himself a pauper. His type and presses were gone, he was still in debt to Fust, and to add to his woes there hung over him a suit for breach of promise of marriage. He made one more effort to repair his fortunes, but in a few years the man who had started out in life with money, position and high hopes was glad enough to accept the charity of good Adolf of Nassau.—Baltimore Sun.

"Out of Touch."

It is said that the Republicans in Congress find themselves "out of touch with Taft." Aren't they also out of touch with several millions of Taft's fellow-citizens? My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Howard Gardner.

A Spring Suggestion by a Trained Druggist.

Appendicitis and many other ills come from Constipation and over-loading with food which the system cannot care for. DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to act on the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Greensboro residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial?

W. H. Newson, Lakeside St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I noticed that my kidneys were disordered about a year ago. The kidney secretions became unnatural, then my back began to bother me, making it hard for me to attend to my work. I used many remedies, but without success, until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. The results both surprised and delighted me. My system was soon rid of kidney complaint and there has never been a return attack."

TROUSERS NEXT.

Paris Offers Skirt That Is Like Man's Raiment.

GARMENT SEEN IN NEW YORK.

Women Wear Curious Garb in Street, and Men Meet at Them—Hardly Likely to Become Popular Until Aeroplanes Become Common—Statuettes as Table Decorations.

New York, Tuesday.

Dear Eliza—What do you think of the trousers skirt?

It's no use turning up your nose, my dear, and refusing to notice it. It's really and truly here in all sizes from 32 to 42, and the other day one of the shops held a sale in all colors at $29.75.

If you see a crowd of men looking into a dry goods store window be sure there's a trousers skirt displayed on a shimmering wax figure inside, and you ought to hear the men giggle. I never heard men giggle until this spring, and the trousers skirt is the cause.

The picture I am sending you was taken in Paris at the Auteuil races. The Frenchwomen are a lot more daring than we are, and their trousers skirts are no divided compromises, but are real "pants," as you can see. The only difference seems to be that they are a little baggy as to seat and have a funny little apron contrivance in front and in back, of which the mud makes short work. Imagine walking down an American street in one of these freak costumes.

But that's just what the girls did right here in this town not long ago. They walked down Fifth avenue toward Forty-second street until the crowd forced them to take a cab. Then they tried it on Broadway, and the crowd booed them so they were glad to find shelter in another cab.

American men will give the vote to their wives and daughters sooner than they will allow them to borrow their clothes, I can tell you.

The only possible use I can see for the trousers skirt is for outing, mountain climbing purposes, etc. I have seen some models which, when the wearer was in repose, fell together after the manner of ordinary skirts, and they were not half bad for this sort of thing.

I'll tell you the only chance we women will ever have to wear trousers will be when we own an aeroplane. Then when you see a woman in kickers you will merely say, "Oh, she has just come off her aeroplane!" Trousers aerial costumes will be as common as riding habits are now. But until the day of aerial transportation I am afraid woman will have to be satisfied with her little old skirt.

Nearly all the women whose thoughts are not turned toward trousers are interested in the new satin suits.

Wool backed satin has certainly made a hit. The heavier weight has been worn all winter, and now the lighter weaves are all the rage this spring. Nothing dressier can be found than the short, straight little coat of satin with its moire collar and the straight, rather narrow skirt with its band around the bottom. The beauty of these satin suits, Eliza, is that you can wear them without a coat if you match them to a chiffon blouse trimmed with satin bands, and they are always dressy, which is not the case with a cloth skirt and a lace or lingerie waist, no matter how fine.

Half the fads we women are guilty of start during Lent, when the social whirl is at a standstill and we have plenty of time on our hands. For instance, this spring a great fad for wrestling has sprung up. A Boston girl started it. It seems they are quite mad over it in the Hub, and the boudoirs of the Back Bay district are the scenes of some clever private bouts.

Those who advocate the sport say it gives one a beautiful figure and rosy cheeks, so all the pasty complexioned fat girls are trying it as a beauty cure.

"Sometimes," says a business girl, a friend of mine, "I get indignant at all the preaching directed at us. On all hands young women are told that they must have a good knowledge of household management, cookery and other duties if they are to become helpful wives and be happy in their marriage."

Young men are being warned with equal insistence that the partners they select must have the same qualifications. That is quite the correct view to take, but there comes a pleading cry from some of the girls. "Nobody disputes the statement," they say in effect, "and we all agree that a wife should know those things before she is married, but is not that rather hard on some of us who are so busy that we have no opportunity of acquiring the requisite experience?"

"There are many thousands of girls who have never had time to learn housekeeping. Are they to be excluded from all chance of marriage? Is it to be argued that they are incapable of becoming good wives, from the housekeeping point of view, and making their husbands happy?"

"It is only fair to say that they must be judged according to their capacity and intelligence. They cannot be entirely ignorant of household work, cooking, etc. Therefore if they are bright and quick witted they will soon learn many details, even after marriage. In fact, many girls who have married in what their critics would call a state of ignorance have astonished their friends by the rapidity of their development into good housewives. 'When I married,' said a happy husband, with a smile, 'my wife didn't know how to mend my pocket; she was no needlewoman. But she understood that she must become one, for I couldn't afford to have everything done out. And now I'll back her against anybody.'"

"The fact that they have never done it is no proof that they cannot learn to do it. They may learn more quickly than those who have already acquired the experience, for it takes some people much longer than others to assimilate knowledge. The proper way to regard this matter is to judge by the things they have done and by their general intelligence, together with (and this is the important point) the love they bear for the prospective husband."

Don't you think that girl is right? Have you heard of the new vogue in table decoration? Instead of flowers the women of the smart set are scattering little statuettes all over the dining tables. The pedestals of these lie half hidden beneath trailing vines, while electric lights similarly concealed throw soft colors upon them. Quite a fairy like effect may be obtained in this manner. At a recent dinner which I attended the statuettes were pure white with a soft greenish springtime light thrown on them from the lights concealed beneath. Sometimes a little statuette at each place holds up a rope of vines or spring flowers which reaches around the entire table.

Speaking of table decorations, everything that can be metal is nowadays. Silver vegetable dishes have long replaced china ones. The silver breakfast dish which closes automatically to keep bread, chops, etc., warm is a fixture, and now comes the silver water carafe, replacing our old friend of cut glass memory. Truly, times do change. By the way, have you heard the latest?

A German steamship company is thinking of installing a "ship's mother" on every liner it owns. The office of these mothers will be to look out for the comfort of all the feminine passengers. It will work all right if the woman has tact, but if not can you see where a mother of this description might be worse than a mother-in-law? Lovingly, MABEL.

THEIR BOOTS COME OFF.

Peculiar Effect When Men Fall From a Great Height.

Stories they tell in the copper mining region of northern Michigan corroborate what the Literary Digest says of a singular phenomenon: "The strange case we recently noted of a man who fell 400 feet from a Dover cliff and had his boots off when picked up moves W. S. Doolittle of the Sterling Salt company, Moscow, N. Y., to cite instances of similar falls in which the feet were also found to be uncovered. He does not accept the conclusion that the man who fell must have retained sufficient consciousness to pull off his boots. Mr. Doolittle writes: 'Some time after the completion of a shaft 1,200 feet deep, during the act of putting down a cable to the mine level, a workman fell from a point about 700 feet from the bottom of the shaft and landed in the sump, or a point a few feet below the mine level.'"

"When his body was picked up and brought to the surface it was found that his boots were off, and these were later picked up and brought to the surface also. In talking this matter over with the engineer in charge he said that several such cases had been brought to his notice."

"Just why the boots come off the feet is beyond my comprehension, but in this case, which came under my personal notice, it was a fact, and my friend the engineer stated it as usually being the case."

He is a fortunate author who can draw on his imagination for money.

Take Possession of Palmas Island Heretofore Considered Part of Philippines.

Special to Telegram.

Manila, Philippine Islands, April 27.—Delayed advices received here, via Jolo, are to the effect that the Dutch have taken possession of Palmas Island, sixty miles southeast of Manado, and lowered the United States colors and substituted the flag of Holland. It is understood here that the United States does not intend to protest against the action of the Dutch.

No U. S. Flag There.

Washington, April 26.—The United States has no flag on the island of Palmas, Philippines. The island was discovered in 1861 by a British vessel and has always been considered a part of what are known as the Philippine Islands.

Mexican Government Enters Protest.

DISHWASHING-SYSTEMATIZED.

Expert Housekeeper Offers Valuable Suggestions For This Task.

In the average household the washing of dishes is regarded as the severest and most onerous of all the daily tasks. It comes three times daily, for that matter, in the well-ordered household, though, and to say, there are women who wash the dishes only once a day. Mrs. C. T. Herrick, an authority on good housekeeping methods, recently wrote some valuable advice on the subject of dishwashing, from which these suggestions are taken:

Before you wash a single dish or utensil you should have all the soiled articles gathered together and sorted—the silver thrust into a pitcher or laid in a bowl of hot water, the plates and cups emptied, scraped or rinsed; the glasses together, your dish towels and mop and the soap in its soap shaker, your silver polish and bit of flannel at hand to rub off any speck of tarnish or stain you may discover on the silver, the tray on which to range the pieces after they are wiped dry.

When all this is done, it is a swift business to wash the glasses in the clean hot suds, to give the rinsed silver its dip, to finish up with the china, small pieces and large. As your towel gets wet you do not have to take time and leave the water to cool while you hunt up another towel, for all you will need are laid ready at your hand.

Compare this way of washing dishes with the haphazard method or lack of method practiced by some housekeepers, who do the pieces at random, who have nothing in order, but wash the articles as they happen to come, leaving the water to chill while they stop to get some necessary help in the work. Is there any real comparison between the ease and comfort of the two styles of doing the task?

COOK PORK WELL.

Danger of Trichinosis From Eating Raw or Imperfectly Cooked Pork.

Cases of illness sometimes occur from eating uncooked or insufficiently cooked pork which is infested with a microscopic parasite commonly known as trichina, or flesh worm, the scientific name being Trichinella spiralis. An average of 1 or 2 per cent of the hogs slaughtered in the United States are infested with this parasite. When transmitted to human beings trichinae may cause serious illness, sometimes resulting in death. Out of about 15,000 cases of trichinosis recorded in medical literature, most of which occurred in Europe, 830 resulted fatally. No method of inspection has yet been devised by which the presence or absence of trichinae in pork can be determined with certainty, and the government meat inspection does not include inspection for this parasite. All persons are accordingly warned by the United States department of agriculture not to eat pork or sausage containing pork, whether or not it has been inspected by federal, state or municipal authorities, until after it has been properly cooked.

A temperature of about 160 degrees F. kills the parasite. Therefore pork when properly cooked may be eaten without any danger of infection. Fresh pork should be cooked until it becomes white and is no longer red in color in all portions of the piece, at the center as well as near the surface. Dry salt pork, pickled pork and smoked pork previously salted or pickled, providing the curing is thorough, are practically safe so far as trichinosis is concerned, but as the thoroughness of the curing is not always certain such meat should also be cooked before it is eaten.

STREET

Car Line Will be Extended From Lindley Park to Pomona and Terra Cotta.

The directors of the North Carolina Public Service Company have decided to extend the street car track from Lindley park to Pomona mills and Terra Cotta, over a mile from the end of the present line. The work of putting the track down will begin at once and the cars will be going over the new track within a short time. The line has already been surveyed and a good deal of the material is conveniently located so the work can be pushed to an early completion.

The company has, as has been mentioned before, decided to extend the car line out North Elm street to a point nearly opposite the Country Club property and it is expected that the work on this extension will begin within the next two weeks. The company states that the work will begin as soon as the formal transfer of the Country Club property is made and the work of improving the grounds actually begun. The directors of the club state that this will be done within the next few days.

The Public Service Company has also surveyed and planned for a car line along Buchanan street, Walker avenue, Mendenhall and Spring Garden street, and the directors are now considering the building of a line along these streets. The outlook is that the work will begin on this line as soon as the other lines proposed are completed.

POLL TAX REQUIREMENT WILL CUT DOWN VOTE

Vote in General Election Will Be Less Than in City Primary on Account of Decision of Judges That Tax Must be Paid by May 1st.

It is not expected that more than 1,000 votes will be cast in the general election next Tuesday as against 1,438 cast in the primary on Monday. This does not mean that the candidates and their friends will cease to work, but the provision requiring that poll tax must be paid before May 1 in order to qualify a voter will mean that a large number of the registered voters will be debarred from voting because of their failure to pay their tax. The poll tax has been due since Sept. 1, 1910, and has been subject to levy since March 15, 1911. Despite this fact more than a third of the voters in the city have neglected to pay this tax.

However, the candidates and their friends will be quite active during the remaining three days and will no doubt cause a large number of people to pay their tax. Just how this fact will be determined is not known, but the judges will likely require each voter to produce his receipt or take oath that he paid his tax before May 1.

It was stated yesterday morning that there was some doubt as to the real meaning of the law regarding the qualification of a voter and some of the election officers were seen yesterday. It would appear that the judges are going to decide that a person cannot vote in the election unless he paid his poll tax before May 1.

GETTING TIRED.

Fatigue That Follows Monotony of Work or Exercise.

It is said that for horses the hardest road out of London is the most level one. There are no hills to climb and descend, and the tired horse has no chance to rest one set of muscles while another works. Monotony produces fatigue, and because this particular road is one dead, monotonous level more horses die on it than on any other leading out of London.

We can even take a charitable view of the time taken daily by the typewriter girl for the arrangement of her hair. Her fingers are congested by the work of writing and tired by contact with the hard keys of her machine, and the different feeling of her hair and the little plays and movements of her fingers in adjusting it are a distinct stimulation and relief.

Fatigue following long continued exercise is really a mild form of illness which arises from overexerting some one part of the body. In writing, for instance, the fingers move up and down hardly more than a quarter of an inch as they travel across the page. Yet this is hard work for their little muscles and burns up tissue in the fingers very fast. If rest intervals are too short and infrequent, there is not time for the removal of the waste products of this destruction through the normal channels of the body and congestion results. The feeling of fatigue or pain that follows long continued use of any of the muscles is due to the influence of such poisonous material, as well as to the stretching of the tissues caused by the pressure of the blood which settles there.—Paul W. Goldsby in Atlantic.

Puzzled the Englishman.

A Philadelphian who had been entertaining a friend from London for several days noticed that his guest appeared to be in deep thought at dinner the other evening. "What's the matter?" he asked, fearing that the Englishman was ill or worried or homesick. "I'm rather puzzled, old chap," replied the Londoner. "I really can't make out what the blawasted bouncer meant. I was lost in your city the other day, and I dropped into an apartment house to ask my way. A fellow was loading freight on a bally lift. I awaked him. 'Me good man, can you tell me how far down is Spruce street?' And that fellow said, 'I don't know, old top; my elevator only runs to the basement.' Now, what the dickens did that bloke mean?"—Philadelphia Record.

Largest Ice River.

The great antarctic river discovered by Lieutenant Shackleton is the largest ice river known and represents the only visible outflow from the vast ice sheet of the southern continent. This the Beardmore glacier descends 6,000 feet between sandstone hills and is 100 miles long by 50 wide. The Malaspina glacier in Alaska covers nearly 600 square miles. Himalayan glaciers reach a length of twenty miles, and the longest Alpine glacier is sixteen miles.

Harking Back.

"You were telling Miss Gauspiss this morning that you were going to be married again, weren't you?" said the shrewd man.

"Why, yes," the widower gasped in surprise. "How did you know?"

"After you left her she began to count on her fingers."—Philadelphia Press.

Women and Society

An Appreciative Husband

(By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WINTHROP.)

Most of the real hard home work and the wear and tear of home life fall to the wife's share and husbands, as a rule, are apt to take all her self-sacrifice for granted. When the novelty of having a devoted wife to work for, and attend to them, has worn off, the majority of husbands fall in appreciation.

The spic-and-span home, the absolute cleanliness, the nice, dainty meals are always there, and the husband soon learns to take them as a matter of course, never thinking of the pains, the thought and the care that his wife has bestowed on these things so as to make his comforts as perfect as possible. She may be dying for a word of praise, but that little word of thanks, that tender look of mute appreciation is perhaps wanting. But this should not be.

The girl who gets a judicious amount of praise and admiration from the man she has married will cheerfully work her fingers to the bone for him and glory in doing so. It must be remembered that although the man may be the bread-winner and may work hard, the wife has to work hard also. There is nothing more worrying than house-keeping and housecleaning, and a conscientious wife will sometimes work herself up into a highly nervous state over domestic duties, lest her efforts fail.

If a husband has tact and a needful sympathy he will know just when to give the word of praise. When a wife is tired, irritable and worried, and he gives that little word of encouragement, it acts like magic on a tired mind and body. Of course, a man can't be praising and admiring his partner all day.

Also, often the most reserved men, who find it difficult to express themselves, admire their wives tremendously. But it is wonderful how a man's sense of sympathy can be made to be actively demonstrative by the woman who really loves him, and whom he equally loves.

If you find that your husband needs education, begin at once, but take care that he does not perceive it. No man likes it to be apparent that he is being "managed" at all. And yet all clever women manage their husbands, but they never try to manage a man by means of bullying or nagging.

Don't forget that a little judicious coaxing will go further than any amount of insistence on your rights.

Don't give your husband any reason for grumbling. If a girl takes care to make home happy and comfortable, to cook nice meals, and serve them faintly, a man is far less likely to grumble than under a daily menu of singed bacon and saltless potatoes. Above all, don't be stingy in kind words, but remember that if you like a little praise yourself, so does he.

HINTS FOR THE BOUDOIR

(By MILDRED WYCKOFF.)

Cures for Sleeplessness.
A sufferer from insomnia states that she was cured of sleeplessness by the simplest means, that of eating a raw onion sandwich just before going to bed. Less disagreeable to some people is another sandwich, cure which has been vouched for by an enthusiast. It is made by buttering thickly two thin slices of bread, then sprinkling them with cayenne pepper. These sandwiches should be eaten just before getting into bed, and sleep is said to quickly follow.

The hot water treatment is advocated by many people. It consists of putting the feet into water as hot as can be borne before going to bed, also to drink a cup of very hot water.

Blushing and Its Cure.

"Could you give me a remedy for blushing? Every time I am spoken to my face goes very red," says "Troubled Lily."

Blushing is really a form of nervousness, and you should take a good tonic containing plenty of iron. A druggist will make one for you. Go into company as much as possible, and try not to think of yourself. By taking an interest in other people you will forget your little trouble.

To Curl the Hair.

"Could you tell me of something that will crimp the hair permanently?" asks "Marguerite."

I am afraid I cannot do that. "Marguerite," but if you moisten your hair before crimping it with the following mixture it will retain its wave for two or three days: Mix the white of an egg with half a pint of water, and apply a little to the hair before putting it into curlers or making plaits.

An interesting meeting was held by the Home & School Council yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the library. "What the Meat and Milk Ordinances have done for the City," and "The Fly and Mosquito and How to Exterminate Them," were the subjects of two interesting papers. After the papers were read a full discussion followed and many interesting facts were brought out. The discussions were most beneficial and the housekeepers present will no doubt set to work with renewed zeal to rid the city of these detestable insects.

GREENSBORO MAN SURVEYING ROADS FOR NEWTON TOWN

Newton, April 26.—Civil Engineer J. K. Edmonds of Greensboro, a road expert of wide experience and ability, is here at the instance of the citizens of Newton and by provision of the board of county commissioners, to seek out better locations for several roads leading into town. Newton is situated on a high ridge and the country around it is hilly, so that the roads, ages-old, climb hills and dip into valleys in such a way that undoubtedly Newton has suffered in business.

Mr. Edmonds is accompanied by a committee and is surveying every day for the better locations which are felt to be and are imperatively necessary.

The road work of the county is going along nicely. Under the system adopted the roads let out to contractors who are required to adhere to a certain width and to use the road drag. Where good work has been done the roads are fine and everybody is pleased. Although entirely earth work, the improvement is marked; and its success will mean a long step toward either macadam or gravel highways.

LABOR OFFICIAL RESIGNS

Characterizes Members of Cutters' Assembly as "Ingrates of Basest Kind."

Lynn, Mass., April 26.—Dissatisfied with existing conditions in the organization, E. Boynton Armstrong, of this city, master workman of the Cutters' National Trade Assembly, Knights of Labor, today announced his resignation from office. In the letter announcing his resignation, which he sent to all of the Cutters' Assemblies in the country, he characterized the members of the assembly as "ingrates of the basest kind."

Mr. Armstrong until a few months ago, was the head of the Lynn Cutters' Assembly, Knights of Labor. For eight years there had not been a strike in any Lynn factory. Opposition to Mr. Armstrong and his administration began to develop, and a short time after the "insurgents" in the Lynn assembly gained control of the organization and re-elected new officers. Soon afterward a strike was called in one of the local shoe factories by the Cutters' Assembly.

STEAM WHISTLE ECHOES LOCATE ICEBERGS IN FOG

Captain of Liner Reports Novel Method of Avoiding Collision at Sea.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—Captain Anderson, of the Scandinavian-American liner Kentucky, which arrived in port last night from Copenhagen, reported a novel but commonsense method of determining the position of icebergs at sea in foggy weather. He used the blasts of a steam whistle, waited for a return echo and obtained the information desired.

When the vessel was to the eastward of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland a dense fog the temperature began to drop and the chilly conditions of the atmosphere indicated the presence of icebergs, but the officers were at a loss to tell whether they were ahead, astern or abeam. The whistle was blown, the sound waves struck the huge masses of floating ice and by means of the echoes Captain Anderson was able to get an approximate position of the drifting bergs ahead and in time to change the Kentucky's course to the southward and steam many miles away, where he was sure that dangers of this kind did not exist. The Kentucky docked last night without a mishap in her entire westward run.

Of course you are honest, but did you ever hear of any one going around looking for you in the daylight with a lantern.—Chicago News.

is an essential element to health.

When it is insufficient or lacking there is a dearth of red blood corpuscles, which causes anaemia and run-down condition of the entire system, with consequent bodily weakness.

In order to restore the blood to a healthy condition, iron must be supplied in an easily assimilated form. We guarantee this may be done by Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, made without oil.

This combination of two world-famed tonics, restores to the blood the elements lacking to make rich, red blood, which imparts strength and vitality to every organ in the body.

J. Edmund Miller, of New Haven, Conn., says their little girl had been frail and sickly ever since her birth. Vinol was recommended and they tried it, and immediately noticed an improvement in her condition. They continued its use and it built her up, until they cannot recommend it too highly to build up a weakened system. Fariss-Klutts Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

GOV. MANN ADVOCATES PLACING CONVICTS ON ROADS

Richmond, Va., April 26.—Eventual use of probably three-fourths of the penitentiary convicts upon the public highways of the State is favored by Governor Mann, according to a statement made by him yesterday. The disposal and employment of convict labor has been the subject of a great deal of study on the part of the Governor since he went into office.

In pursuance of his plan to give the public and the General Assembly every possible light on the subject, the Executive has secured information from every State in the Union, showing just what is done with the convicts. Detailed statements show how the men are used, what they cost and what the proceeds of their labor amount to, with general comment on the results.

This matter has been collected into tabular forms on huge sheets. Copies have been turned over by the Governor to the Superintendent of Public Printing, who is engaged in having the material printed in pamphlets for general distribution all over the State.

Governor Mann has thought of the subject until he is in position to talk about it. He does not, however, care to discuss the Davis shoe contract at this time, intending to leave the disposition of that problem to the Legislature, after putting before that body all the light he can obtain.

"We have in this State, say, 2,100 to 2,200 convicts, as a daily average," said the Governor. "Some of these will always be too ill and weak to engage in hard labor on the roads or anywhere else, and must be cared for at the State farm."

"Others there will always be who are too desperate to be on the roads, where chances of escape are before them. These two classes might together number about 500."

"This would leave perhaps 1,500 men to be used on the roads. This would be about three times as many as are now employed, exclusive of jailbirds. Perhaps the Legislature may see fit to substitute convict labor as State aid to the counties in part, at least, in lieu of the cash aid now extended."

"Now," continued the Governor, "I believe the cost of keeping men on the roads could be reduced. Possibly this could be brought down from 86 cents to about 50 cents a day. I would do this by decreasing the number of guards. I would then make inducements to prisoners to remain at work without attempting to escape. In addition to time off for good behavior, I would give additional bonus of time to those men who prove especially efficient and faithful. Then I would take the best men and make them trusty guards, saving the salaries of a good many guards."

"In addition, I would make the penalty for attempted escape from convict camps very heavy. I feel that the prisoners must be kept at work, for it is the best thing for them, as for everybody else."

"As for the desperate men, whose guarding would cost too much, I would put them together in some spot where they would be enclosed and let them break rock or engage in some such employment to aid in road-building, if possible."

There is little doubt that this policy as announced by the Governor will attract a good deal of attention all over the State, for any plan advocated by him will naturally bear a great deal of weight.

Belled the Boundary.
"Artificial boundaries" are generally invisible. But a highly artificial one forces itself upon the notice of the traveler by rail between the Lake of Lugano and Lake Maggiore. The frontier between Italy and Switzerland is followed for a considerable portion of the journey, and it is marked by a lofty barrier of wire netting hung with bells for the purpose of preventing smugglers from getting into Italy without attracting the attention of armed defenders of Italian revenue. In extreme contrast with this is the natural boundary between Italy and France provided by Mont Blanc, which in spite of its naturalness is so vague that it is still undetermined, though scarcely worth disputing, whether the summit of the mountain is Franco-Italian or all French.—London Chronicle.

Mortification Well Earned.
An Englishman, alone with Richardson, the novelist, said to him, "I am happy to pay my respects to the author of 'Sir Charles Grandison,' for at Paris, and at The Hague, and, in fact, at every place I have visited, it is much admired."

Richardson appeared not to notice the compliment, but when all the company were assembled addressed the gentleman with, "Sir, I think you were saying something about 'Sir Charles Grandison.'"
Richardson replied, "I do not remember ever to have heard it mentioned."—From Orville's "Cyclopedia of Anecdotes."

The Printer Telephones, Do You?

"THIS is Brown the printer. 'Yes. We can make a correction, but we'll have to take the form off the press. 'Lucky you called us up—good-bye.'"

"That's where the telephone saved a good customer quite a bit of money," said the master printer, as he hung up the receiver.

If the printer is out of a certain kind of stock, the Bell Telephone Service, with its local and long distance connections, enables him to get his work out on time.

LIFE AND DEATH

(By CARE REESE.)

Verily, man takes but little with him when he goes, but it is a much cleaner and more creditable ballast than that which he leaves behind with priest, physician and testamentary scribe.

The undertaker does not count. His office begins with a new order of things something like commencement. It looks like a "finish," but isn't. But in at the last breath are the three faithful servants—the minister, the doctor and the writer of wills. An old-time authority calls these attendants the three "faculties," one as a depository for the sins, another for the bodily infirmities, and the scribe to dispose of the hoard which grows so paltry and insignificant at the final accounting when its portions are classified and disbursed.

In a way the picture reveals something of the littleness, the suffering and sordidness of life. Sins, diseases and a few possessions, and the record ends. Verily man takes nothing when he goes, but is a worthy cargo compared with what he leaves behind. Howbeit, a sort of relief after all for the soul to slip forth naked and with all the wrongdoing of earthy existence left with the confessor, with all the ailments jotted down in the notebook of the doctor, and with dross and pelf safe in the keeping of the executor. It is a clean soul, anyway.

Indeed, all souls are clean when they slip from the cocoon and wing their way heavenward. Each day is our Easter and "He is risen" is applicable when the infirmities, from sins to pocket-books, are left behind, no matter the stated day and hour of the prayer book. There are those who go further and claim that the soul is pure and clean even in earthly bondage, and that all souls should be considered on a plane of equality, no matter the evil twists and tendencies of the perceptions or the deficiencies and moral and physical degeneracy. Nothing can injure the soul. It is the crookedness of the casement which apparently warps and distorts. But be this as it may the soul is a clean soul when it wings heavenward. It has lain long perhaps in the murky shell. It has been hindered and hampered, but at last the bonds break and there is release. It is this release, at the new birth, which the holy Easter day celebrates. The release refers to the bondage of the tomb and a resurrection into a new life. But there is a release this side of the grave, something like the frozen waters let loose in the warmth of the spring sunshine, or the flowers peeping up through the damp mold. Maeterlinck says that "birth dates from the day when for the first time mortals feel that there is something grave and unexpected in life." The soul makes grand and noble leaps in spite of earthly bondage. Enter into joy even in this life and not leave so much sin, ills and garnered possessions to the care of the "faculties."

KITCHEN LORE

Pickled Tongue.

Take four pounds of either pigs' or calves' tongue, and four pigs' feet, clean nicely in warm water and put in your soup pot; add one and one-half pints of vinegar and enough cold water to cover; let come to a boil quickly and remove all scum as soon as it rises.

When the liquor is clear add one large onion, one tablespoonful of whole black pepper and two tablespoonfuls of salt, reduce the heat and let simmer until the tongue is tender.

Now take up all the meat, skin and trim, but leave the tongue whole and place in a deep earthen bowl or gallon jar.

Boil down the liquor to one-half pint and strain through a napkin, wrung out of boiling water, and pour over the tongue.

When cold this will be a beautiful, clear meat jelly. When serving take out only as much as will be required for one meal, cut in slices and garnish with jelly.

This tongue can be kept in a cold, dry place for two or three weeks, and is especially nice when served for luncheon or supper with fried potatoes.

To make the fondant cream, break the white of one egg into a basin and mix with it a tablespoonful of sugar syrup. Into this stir one pound of confectioners' sugar, adding it gradually until the mixture is sufficiently pliable to be molded into balls with the fingers.

STORAGE BATTERY ELECTRIC CARS OPERATING IN CONCORD

Concord, April 26.—The usual quiet and order of the business section of the city was changed into a noisy thoroughfare yesterday morning when a large throng of citizens, numbering many ladies, gathered on the streets to take a look at Concord's first street car. The whole population was on the qui vive, and about 10:30 o'clock the clank, clank of a bell was heard which was immediately followed by the cry: "Look out, the car is coming!" Pedestrians suddenly halted their gaits while business men and clerks came forth from their offices and shops to see the car pass. Slowly the first car turned the curve at the intersection of Depot and Union streets and then sped up beautiful North Union, while the people gazed and the horses pranced. After making a trip over the route the car was stopped at the square where a number of pictures were made.

To the South belongs the distinction of being the first place a trolley car was operated, which took place in Montgomery, Ala., a few days before they were started in Richmond, Va. To Concord, North Carolina, belongs the distinction of having the first storage battery car ever operated in the South.

From Leroy Scott, sales manager of the Federal Storage Battery Car Company. The Observer's correspondent gathered the following facts concerning the Edison storage battery:

Mr. Edison has been experimenting for ten years on a storage battery. The old storage battery is composed of lead and zinc which deteriorates very rapidly and is heavy and cumbersome. The new battery is only half the weight and there is no acid. The gas that it generates is oxygen hydrogen, which is perceptible to the human senses, while the sulphuric acid gas from the lead battery is highly destructive to all materials. If the lead battery is overcharged for too long a period the plates will melt, while the Edison battery may be charged ten times the normal rate without permanent injury. The old battery is also necessarily contained in a glass or rubber case, which is expensive and liable to explode. The Edison battery is contained in corrugated, nickel-plated steel and is "fool" proof.

As to the life of the battery it has been in use seven years without any apparent deterioration and no upkeep cost.

The car was purchased from the Federal Storage Battery Car Company, of which R. H. Beach is president, who with Mr. Edison will be in Concord Wednesday. Mr. Edison is reported as saying that he is especially interested in this kind of car and will see that it is a success. Cars like this are now in operation on the Twenty-second street cross line in New York, and also in Washington and other cities, and everywhere have given entire satisfaction.

The car is 31 feet long, and of regulation width. It will seat 32 people without crowding. The seats are lengthwise on each side of the car.

Leroy Scott, general sales manager, and Mr. Lefevre, engineer are here to instruct the local employees of the company how to operate the car. The sale of the car was made by the Edison Storage Battery Equipment Company, with offices in Atlanta and Salisbury, through their representatives, Messrs G. R. Collins and W. H. Ragland.

Officers of the traction company present were: W. F. Shiner, president; T. J. Jerome, secretary; T. B. Vanderford, vice president, and T. D. Maness and M. L. Jackson, directors.

Mr. Jerome stated that another car is expected here within a week, and it proposes to operate a ten or fifteen-minute schedule. The track will be extended to a point opposite the Southern passenger station and the car can be entered without crossing the street.

W. F. Snider, president of the company, expressed himself as well pleased with the storage battery car and the general outlook for business here. While talking to Mr. Snider about his company and its prospects, he incidentally called attention to the beauty of North Union street, and pointed out that by using a storage battery car the beautiful shade trees would not be injured.—Charlotte Observer.

EIGHT WERE NONE TO BOAST OF

A gentleman who had just been introduced to Prof. Guy Carleton Lee, historian and lecturer on "The Man of Sorrows" and "Jefferson Davis," asked, "What degrees have you, sir?"

"None to boast of," answered the historian. The questioner looked surprised, and afterwards, said to a friend, "There, you see, a man can acquire fame as a historian without college education." But he had drawn the wrong conclusion from Dr. Lee's remark, for eleven years of work at colleges have given to this editor and scholar no less than eight degrees, those of A. B., Ph. B., LL. B., M. A., LL. M., D. Litt., LL.D., and Ph.D., and all with high honors.

THRILLING BATTLE WITH CHINESE PIRATES

Crew of Liner "Asia" Fought Pirates for Hours Around Wreck of Ship---Finally Beaten Off and the Mails Saved.

Shanghai, China, April 26.—The most thrilling battle between Chinese pirates and Europeans in a decade was reported by the survivors of the wrecked Pacific Mail liner Asia, when they were landed here today.

For hours the officers and crew of the Asia fought off the pirates, who swarmed up her sides with the hope of looting her valuable cargo, with rifles, shotguns and revolvers, and finally with rude clubs and winches. The natives were badly beaten and a number killed, but they returned to the attack time and again after being repulsed.

A. E. Cozen, engineer of the Asia, and R. Arundell, a water tender, were captured by the pirates, but afterward were ransomed for $300. Arundell was later missed, and it is feared was recaptured.

Mrs. Chen Dong Chee, wife of an Oakland, (Cal.) merchant, was wounded while in one of the lifeboats. There were no other casualties among the Asia's company.

True to the traditions of the sea, Captain Gaukruger, of the Asia, is standing by his sunken vessel, the top of whose stacks are still visible above the water. The first officer of the Asia, who brought the 60 saloon and 700 steerage passengers and the mails of the wrecked steamer to this port, reported that the crew fired 500 rounds at the pirates during the day and until the steamer slipped off the rock and sunk on Monday. He says the pirates are now diving for salvage, despite the fact that Captain Gaukruger is alongside in a tug.

The Asia was running at three-quarter speed on Sunday, and in some way got off her course and hit a rock off Finger Island. The rock tore through her first and second bow compartments and the water came in as through a sieve. It was then 5:30 in the morning and the passengers and crew were ordered on deck. Most of them brought their outer clothing with them and hurriedly dressed as the lifeboats and rafts were put over the side. Women and children were taken first, and within 30 minutes all of the passengers were in the boats. Before the water reached the batteries the wireless had given the alarm and word was received that the Chinese steamer Shaohsing was on the way.

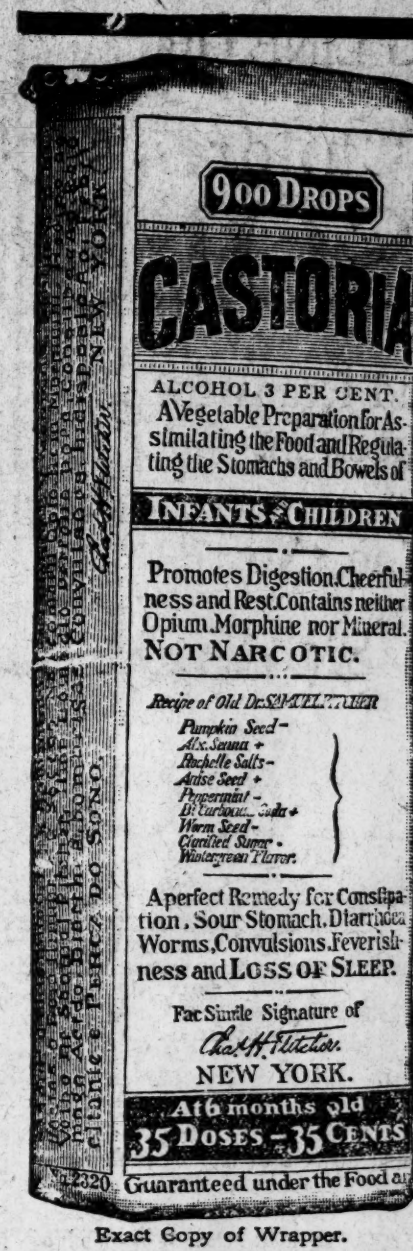

She reached the scene and rescued the passengers soon after 10 o'clock. She stood by until the America Maru arrived. Meanwhile the crew had returned to the Asia, which had settled low in the water and were standing by to repulse the pirates who swarmed about her in great numbers. They protected themselves from the fire of the officers and crew of the wrecked steamer with mattresses, and when driven down one side swarmed up the other.

The mails were brought on deck and transferred to the Shaohsing, and it was while getting off the last of them that Cozen and Arundell were captured. Cozen killed two of the pirates before he was overpowered. Monday morning Cozen ransomed himself, and Arundell for some reason did not come off in Cozen's boat, claiming it was overloaded, and he has not been seen. Yesterday after the last of the mails and most of the saloon passenger's baggage had been saved the Asia slipped off the rock and sank in deep water.

NEWS OF SPORTS LEAGUE SEASON OPENS WIDE TODAY

Musicians and Patriots at Cone Park will do
One-Third of Job of Opening Carolina
League Ball for 1911.

Billy Laval and his band of Musicians arrived in the city last night, fresh and eager for the play this afternoon when they meet the Patriots in the first engagement of the Carolina League for 1911. At the same time in Charlotte the Hornets will meet the Twins and in Greenville the Spinners will entertain the Electricians.

The game here will no doubt be attended by a large crowd and the fans and families of the city are expecting a first class exhibition at Cone park. The game will be called at 4:15 o'clock and Mayor E. J. Stafford has been selected to cast the sphere over the plate for the first time. Usually the first ball thrown is called a strike for the player generally makes a fake lunge at it if he sees there is no chance of its coming near the required place.

The players will board a special car at the Square and ride to the station and return to the ball park. Special cars will be on hand to accommodate the crowd. Fariss-Klutz Drug Company has offered a box of cigars to the first player making a three-base hit and Doyle's men are hoping that they will at least earn a smoke during the contest. Manager Doyle's team is composed of several old players, Bentley, Rickard, Fuller, Clapp and Eldridge, while Doyle, Corwin, Ware and Lohmann have not played here in a professional game. However, all have been seen in action in the practice games and each player has given a good account of himself.

Manager Laval's team is said to be composed largely of new men, but the players have been hard at work and are rounding into first class shape. The result of the games at Charlotte and Greenville will be taken by innings and posted at the park. Charles A. Hines has been appointed official scorer for the Greensboro Club. Master Dwight Ware is the mascot of the Patriots and will follow them to victory. The new uniforms will be worn tomorrow. The teams wear white at home and gray while away.

The line-up for Greensboro will be about as follows: Ware C, Eldridge, p.; Corwin, ss.; Fuller, lb.; Clapp, 2b.; Doyle, 3b.; Lohmann, lf.; Rickard, cf. Bentley, rf.

SPARTANBURG COMES FOR OPENING GAME

Spartanburg, April 26.—The Spartan Red Sox, under the able leadership of Man. Billy Laval left today for Greensboro, North Carolina, where they will open the Carolina league season with three games with the Patriots on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. When seen last night, Manager Billy said that he hoped to give the Patriots a bad start in the pennant race and to return to Spartanburg on Saturday with at least two scalps hanging at his belt. He has been unable thus far to discover with any certainty what is the strength of the Greensboro bunch; but said that all indications point to their having one of the strongest teams in the circuit.

As for the Sox, they will line-up in the same order as in the game with Wofford on Monday, with one exception. Wofford was struck across the shins by a carelessly thrown bat on Monday afternoon, and the blow has caused a lameness that will keep him out of the game for several days. In his place Bill Wynne, who is no stranger to Spartan fans, will cover the middle cushion. Wynne has been playing with Charleston, in the Sally, and happened to be Johnny-on-the-spot when Wofford was injured.

Vickery or Smith will be sent to the mound for tomorrow's game. Manager Laval is still carrying five slab artists, and will probably continue to do so until May 15, at which date he will be obliged to come within the player limit of 13 men.—Herald.

SPINNERS IN GOOD CONDITION FOR OPENING

Greenville, S. C., April 26.—The Spinners under Manager Smith are working hard in preparation for the opening game on Thursday. The men are limbering up rapidly and promise to be very nearly in the pink of condition.

It is hard to predict the result of the opening game. There is never any telling how a baseball contest will come out and more especially the opening one of the season. Anderson is always strong under the management of Jim Kelly, though little is known here of the men who compose that team this year. It is a safe bet however, that they are good players or they would not be on Kelly's roll.

Big Cashion has not blown in and until he does it is not known who will pitch the opening game. Cashion doesn't get here in time will devolve upon either Griffin or Trammell. All are in pretty good shape. The Griffin is not the Georgia man but one from Pennsylvania who was in the Eastern Carolina League last year. The Georgia man has been given the can and has returned to his home.

The line-up of the infield has been determined upon. Polie Jenkins will play first, Sharp second, Goodman short and Smith third. This is a fine infield and will compare favorably with any in the league.—Piedmont.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET THIS AFTERNOON IN AUDITORIUM

All is in readiness for the big inter-High School track meet to be held in the auditorium this afternoon. The mammoth building has been cleaned and put in ship-shape to handle the crowd. All three teams, representing Greensboro, High Point and Jamestown High Schools, have been in hard training for the past two months. Chiefly on the outcome of this contest will be based all claims of state supremacy of the track, for the High Point and Jamestown teams have both been victorious in important meets, and although her strength is as yet untested, Greensboro has established some excellent records and is recognized as a dangerous rival for any team aspiring to track honors.

Guaranteeing a highly interesting and closely-contested meet, the management will charge an admission fee of 25c. to defray railroad and other expenses.

High Point, determined to conquer her two rivals, has strengthened her team by the addition of new men and will enter six athletes, exactly twice the number required to best several high schools in the big meet held recently at Guilford College.

The events and line-ups of the High

Point and Greensboro teams follow:

100-yard dash—Greensboro, Yates and McDuffie (Capt.); High Point, Hoffman, Burns, and Matton (Capt.).

1 mile run—Greensboro, Clement and Coffin; High Point, Barton and Smith.

BAPTISTS WALLOPED CHRISTIANS IN BASEBALL GAME

Yesterday afternoon at Cone park the Baptists from Wake Forest defeated the Christians from Elon by the unanimous score of 10 to 0. The game was slow and devoid of interest. Elon had a few days ago discarded several of her best players because they had been playing for money and this fact seemed to take all the ginger out of the team. While only two errors were marked up against the players the dumb-plays were too numerous to mention and the fielding was slow. Another thing they could not touch the Wake Forest slab artist, only three hits being secured. Eight fanned. Hedgepeth was pounded for fourteen hits, two being for two bases and one for three.

The Wake Forest men ran bases like they were used to it, being aided considerably in their base stealing by the inability of the catcher to hold the ball.

READY FOR THE LEAGUE OPENING IN CHARLOTTE

Charlotte, April 26.—The fourth season of the Carolina Association opens here tomorrow afternoon with Manager Clancy's Twins opposing Manager Cross' Hornets. Spartanburg playing in Greensboro and Greenville and Anderson fighting out the opening event. The hour for the exhibition is 4 o'clock. The members of the two teams will be paraded through the streets in automobiles during the earlier part of the afternoon and later taken to the ball park in the same conveyance. A brass band with plenteous banners announcing the purpose of the demonstration will also do some parading in the huge automobile truck of the Texas Oil Company. President Wearn has not announced the name of the umpire who will officiate in the opening series and the personage who will twirl the first ball remains undisclosed.

The attendance here tomorrow promises to be large and the scene one of genuine interest and enthusiasm. The game has been abundantly advertised with large placards both in Charlotte and in surrounding towns.—Observer.

DAILY MARKET REPORTS

DAILY COTTON LETTER.

(By J. E. LATHAM.)

New York, April 26.—The cotton market took a decided brace today, with prices rising sharply on reports of heavy precipitation in the Southwest, which may necessitate some replanting, a strong tone in Liverpool and further accounts of delayed seeding from Eastern and Central sections of the belt. Weather advice indicated a low barometer off the Texas coast and the posting of storm warnings along the Gulf. The prospects for more unsettled climatic conditions appeared not only to alarm the new crop short interests but to create some fresh interest on the long side.

Bulls were able to reduce their lines without trouble, as there was plenty of buying power in the market to absorb large offerings on the advance. An expert who has been travelling over North Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama during the past three weeks said the crop is from ten days to two weeks late on account of too much rain. Private cables indicated that Liverpool has been influenced by less favorable crop accounts and a continued good trade demand. Liverpool is due to come 6-12 points higher on October-November and about unchanged on other months.
